

Places of interest

Museums • Contemporary Art, Religious Art, Baleia (whale), Frederico de Freitas House, City of Sugar, Electricity, Ethnographic, Henrique e Francisco Franco (sculpture), Natural History, Embroidery and Tapestry, Madeira Wine, Municipal Museum, Quinta das Cruzes (decorative), Vicente (photography).

Churches • Funchal Cathedral, Jesuits College, St. Peters, Our Lady of Monte, Convent of Saint Clair.

Public Swimming Pools • Barreirinha, Lido, Ponta Gorda, Palmeiras, Porto Moniz and Seixal.

Other Places • São Vicente Caves.

Shopping • Madeira Wine, Embroideries, Tapestry, Wickerwork, Honey Cake, Tropical Fruits, Flowers, Fennel and Eucalyptus Drops.

EURO TOCC DESIGN

...where the imagination has been turned into reality.

madeira
you can feel nature all around you

For more information contact:

Tourist Office of Funchal T: 291 211 900
Tourist Office Monumental Lido T: 291 775 254
Tourist Office of Caniço T: 291 932 919
Tourist Office at the Airport T: 291 524 933
Tourist Office of Machico T: 291 962 289
Tourist Office of Câmara de Lobos T: 291 943 470
Tourist Office of Ribeira Brava T: 291 951 675
Tourist Office of Porto Moniz T: 291 852 594
Tourist Office of Santana T: 291 572 992
Tourist Office of Porto Santo T: 291 982 361
Tourist Office Madeira in Lisbon T: 213 469 11

For more information contact:

Direcção Regional de Turismo
Avenida Arriaga, 18 • 9004-519 Funchal • Madeira
T: 351 291 211900 • F: 351 291 232151
www.madeiratourism.org
info@madeiratourism.org

madeira
Portugal

Madeira, sculpted by the gods.

Madeira is the main island in the Archipelago of the same name, which also includes the islands of Porto Santo, Desertas and Selvagens. Because the two latter are uninhabited and retain their primitive natural state, they are classified as important nature reserves.

The Island of Madeira is situated about 1000 km from mainland Portugal, an hour and a half's flight from Lisbon. With the advent of Madeira's international airport, the island's intercontinental flight connections were significantly improved.

Madeira's year-round Spring-like climate, with temperatures varying between 19°C and 24°C, together with its distinctive geographical formation, encourages you to participate in a variety of outdoor sporting activities which, in turn, lead to closer contact with this island of exceptional beauty.

Located in its picturesque bay, the Island's capital Funchal lies between the deep blue of the sea and the green of its softly curving mountains.

Although the town portrays the cosmopolitan rhythm of the great urban centres, as you make your way along its characteristic streets, squares and parks, you sense the familiar environment and friendliness of the people.

Walking along footpaths and irrigation canals, known as "levadas", which encircle the whole island, your anticipation of the beautiful scenery ahead increases, culminating in a perfect encounter with the Laurissilva forest, distinguished as World Natural Heritage.

However, the island of Madeira holds many more tourist attractions that will surely enrich, in some way, the lives of all our visitors. Every year, a variety of entertainment and musical events celebrate the traditions of the island. A culture arising from five hundred years of history can still be observed in the various museums and heritage buildings.

Here you will find the other side of life, Tradition and Entertainment!

There exists in the Atlantic Ocean a group of islands...

